

TAIWAN
2017 WISC
Fifth
Global International Studies
Conference 2017
第五屆國際關係世界大會

About the Conference

The Fifth Global International Studies Conference is organized by the Taiwan Association for International Relations, the Department of Political Science at National Taiwan University, and the World International Studies Committee.

Taiwan Association of International Relations

國立臺灣大學政治學系
Department of Political Science, National Taiwan University

World International Studies Committee

Call for Papers

Submissions of panels, roundtables and papers can be made until June 1, 2016
A number of travel grants will be available to colleagues from the Global South.

Conference Themes

- 1.Regional cooperation mechanisms (e.g. ASEAN)
- 2.The nexus of regional / international/local
- 3.(Comparative) Foreign policy of Asian states and others
- 4.US-China relations
- 5.Human rights and international norms
- 6.Cross border cooperation mechanisms concerning migration
- 7.Ethno-political conflicts and peace negotiations in Asia
- 8.Teaching IR in a non-Western context
- 9.Turmoil in the Middle East and its spillover effects
- 10.The Possibilities of a Global IR
- 11.International Relations in (South) East Asia
- 12.Historical and sociological approaches to study world politics
- 13.Environmental regimes after Paris
- 14.Energy politics

Important Dates

- Apr. 1-3, 2017: Conference Dates
- Apr. 1, 2016: Deadline for submissions of sections
- Jun. 1, 2016: Deadline for submissions of panels, roundtables, and papers
- Oct. 1, 2016: Latest date for communicating acceptance / rejection decisions
- Dec. 31, 2016: Deadline for early-bird registration
- Mar. 15, 2017: Deadline for on-line registration

Venue Information

Taiwan

Despite its small size, Taiwan has something for everyone, from towering snow-capped mountains to sub-tropical beaches to well-preserved traditional culture.

National Taiwan University

Founded in 1928, NTU is Taiwan's most prestigious university and boasts a reputation for outstanding research.

College of Social Science, NTU

The new COSS building was designed by Mr. Toyo Ito, winner of the Pritzker Architecture Prize Award. The building itself won architecture awards from the Ministry of Culture and National Architects Association.

FURTHER INFORMATION

Please visit our conference website for more details

www.wisc2017.org

Email enquiries: wisc taiwan@gmail.com

